TRIBUTES TO MERIT.
Mr. Fletcher of Philadelphia has just published three elegant Awards, which, by resolutions of the General Assembly of Maryland, are to be presented to Captain BALLARD, and Lieutenant CROSS and MAYO, as tokens of approval of the gallant bearing of those gentlemen in the several engagements in which they took an active part during the last war. The United States Gazette says that the awards are something smaller than those formerly won, but are conformable to the mode. The blade of the finest steel, etched with views of the engagements in which the respective officers to receive them were prominent, containing the names of the donors and guards of solid gold.
The handle and guards are of solid gold, elegantly and appropriately chased, and the whole reflect the highest credit upon the manufacturer. The cost of these awards is TWELVE HUNDRED DOL-LARS.

of the time movers in this undertaking, when I considered that the Noble Duke at the head of his Majesty's Government had been induced on this occasion, to assume a new character, and step forward himself as the public advocate of religion and morality.

Let the whole connection be intended as a blind to the Protestant and high church party, that the Noble Duke, who had for some time previous to that period, determined upon breaking in upon the constitution of 1689, might the more effectually, under the cloak of some outward show of zeal for the Protestant religion, carry on his insidious designs for the infringement of our liberties, and the introduction of Popery into every department of the State.

A long correspondence ensued. The Duke of Wellington demanded whether the foregoing was written by the Earl of Winchester, and published by his authority? The Earl replied in the affirmative. Sir Henry Hardinge acted as the friend of the Duke, & Lord Falmouth as the friend of the Earl.

The following memoranda are Nos. 7 and 8, in the correspondence.

Memorandum of Earl Winchester.
March 19.

Whether I may determine to give an explanation of my letter published in the Standard on Monday last, will depend upon the correctness of my belief that I had grounds for the opinions expressed.

I am ready to allow that I was mistaken in my view of the Noble Duke's conduct, as expressed in my public letter to Mr. Coleridge, on the 14th inst.

and to state my regret at having expressed it, provided the Noble Duke will state on his part that at the time he came forward to preside at the meeting for the establishment of King's college, London, he did not contemplate the measures which are now in progress for Roman Catholic Emancipa-tion, or (to use Mr. Peel's words), "for breaking in upon the constitution of 1689"; but, without a statement to that effect from the Noble Duke, I cannot withdraw the expressions contained in the above letter.

Signed Winchester.
Memorandum of the Duke of Wellington.
London, March 20, 1829.

In the Morning.

Sir Henry Hardinge has read to me a memorandum written by Lord Winchester, delivered to him by Lord Falmouth, from which it appears that his Lordship is anxious that I should justify myself from the charges against me, contained in his Lordship's address to Mr. Coleridge, published in the Standard newspaper.

I may lament that a Nobleman, for whom I feel the highest respect, entertains a bad opinion of me. But I don't complain as long as that opinion is not brought before me.

I cannot admit that any man has a right to call me before him to justify myself from the charges which his fancy may suggest.

That of which I complain, is, that the Earl of Winchester and Nottingham should have published an opinion that I was actuated by disgraceful and criminal motives in a certain transaction which took place nearly a year ago.

His Lordship unprovoked has in-sulted me by stating in writing, and authorizing the publication of this opinion. For this insult I believed, and am not willing to part with the belief, that his Lordship will be anxious to give me reparation.

Signed, W.
In No. 12, Lord Falmouth informs Sir Henry Hardinge, in answer to the Duke's memorandum, that if by the word "reparation" any withdrawal of the Lord Winchester's public letter, or expression of regret for its contents, be expected, he does not feel himself in a situation to comply with such expectation.

Sir Henry Hardinge then enclosed the following letter from the Duke to Lord Falmouth, addressed to the principal:

London, March 20, 1829. P. M.
My Lord—Sir Henry Hardinge has communicated to me a memorandum signed by your Lordship, dated 1 P. M. and a note from Lord Falmouth, dated 3 P. M.

Since the insult unprovoked on my part, and not denied by your Lordship, I have done every thing in my power to induce your Lordship to make me reparation—but in vain. Instead of apologizing for your own conduct, your Lordship has called upon me to explain mine.

The question for me now to decide is this—Is a Gentleman, who happens to be the King's Minister, to submit to be insulted by any Gentleman who thinks proper to attribute to him disgraceful or criminal motives for his conduct as an individual? I cannot doubt of the decision which I ought to make on this question. Your Lordship is also responsible for the consequences.

I now call upon your Lordship to give me that satisfaction for your conduct which a gentleman has a right to require, and which a gentleman never refuses to give. I have the honour, &c.

Signed, Wellington.
The Earl of Winchester and Nottingham.

In reply to which Lord Falmouth transmitted the following letter from the Earl of Winchester, to the Duke, through the hands of his friend, Sir H.

Hardinge.

Buckingham Palace, Friday Night, 11 P. M.
My Lord—I have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your Grace's note.

I have already had occasion to communicate to your Grace, that, under existing circumstances, I did not feel myself in a situation to comply with what was required of me in regard to my public letter.

The satisfaction which your Grace has demanded, it is, of course, impossible for me to decline. I have the honour to be, your Grace's most obedient and humble servant.

Winchester.

To his Grace the Duke of Wellington.
The meeting took place at 8 o'clock on the following morning. The weather being fine the Duke and Sir Henry Hardinge rode on horseback to the place of meeting, where they were joined by Dr. Home, the Duke of Wellington's physician. Lord Winchester arrived in a coach and four, accompanied by Lord Falmouth. Preliminaries being arranged between Lord Falmouth and Sir Henry Hardinge, the latter produced a pair of pistols, and loaded them in the presence of the parties, he then handed them to Lord Winchester, who examined them, and then returned them. Sir Henry handed one to each of the combatants, and measured the ground agreed on, twelve paces.
Lord Winchester re-measured the ground, and the Duke and Lord Winchester took their stations, and were informed by Sir Henry that there was nothing further to be done till he returned. The seconds then retired, and Sir H. Hardinge gave the word "fire." The Duke of Wellington immediately discharged his pistol. The ball struck the lappet of Lord Winchester's coat on the left side. Lord Winchester then fired his pistol in the air; the seconds rejoined their principals, and the following memorandum being handed to Sir Henry Hardinge, was accepted by Sir H. as a reparation to the Duke of Wellington.

March 31, 1829.—Having given the Duke of Wellington the usual satisfaction for the affront he conceived himself to have received from me through my public letter of Monday last, and having thus placed myself in a different situation from that in which I stood when his grace communicated with me, through Sir Henry Hardinge and Lord Falmouth, on the subject of that letter, before the meeting took place, I do not now hesitate to declare, of my own accord, that, in apology, I regret having undoubtedly published an opinion which the Noble Duke states, in his memorandum of yesterday, to have charged him with disgraceful and criminal motives in a certain transaction which took place nearly a year ago. I also declare that I shall cause this expression of regret to be inserted in the Standard newspaper, as the same channel through which the letter in question was given to the public.

The Duke of Wellington was mobbed, on leaving the House of Lords, on the night of the 20th March. Several hundred persons, of the No-Party party surrounded him, uttering disor-dant yells, and the most opprobrious threats. They followed him to his residence in Downing-street, where they were set upon by a large body of the police, and dispersed.

Official intelligence has been received by the British government that an effective blockade of the island of Terceira has been declared by the government existing in Portugal.

Despatches from Lords Strangford and Ponsonby at Rio de Janeiro, dated January 6th, have been received at London. They bring the particulars of the audience granted by the Emperor of Brazil to the Portuguese deputation.
It took place on the last day of December. The answer of the Emperor was; that he was resolved to act in such a manner as should show to the world his intention to uphold the rights of his daughter, the Queen of Portugal, and to enter into no compromise with the usurper of the Portuguese throne. It was supposed that this declaration of war against Don Miguel. A Liverpool paper observes, that the determination of Don Pedro is of course construed into an overthrow of the object of Lord Strangford's mission.

The London Courier all-ways the Russians no credit for fair manly fighting, on any occasion. It attempts to make its readers believe, that the reduction of Toulon was effected by the force of gold, as much as by that of arms.

The pacifico who commanded at that place and the Chief Magistrate, thought it prudent, in consequence, to remain with Count Lungenroth, instead of availing themselves of the terms of the capitulation. It appears that they were right, for the three other magistrates who carried the capitulation to Napoleone, were beheaded by his orders.
No wonder then that it is reluctant to bear ill news to those who have rewarded the messengers!

The preparations making for the Forte are stated in an article from the frontier of Stria dated Feb. 23, to approach the marvellous, too nearly to be believed.

On the 16th Feb. the Sultan had departed to Constantinople from his maritime excursion, apparently well satiated with his voyage. Since his return it is observed that the Dragoman of the Porte has more frequent conferences with the Dragomans of the European Legations, and that M. Jaubert goes more frequently to the Palace of the Porte. It is inferred from this that the negotiations respecting Greece continue.

Madrid, March 5.—(Private Correspondence.) The city of Cadiz, to give a new proof of its gratitude to the King, who has just made it a free port, has made an offer to the Government to pay the expense of sending to the island of Cuba an expedition of 8,000 men which his Catholic Majesty had sent, the intention of sending to America. The inhabitants of Cadiz are in a transport of joy.

LONDON, March 17.
Despatches dated the 23d and 28th inst. were received this morning, at the foreign office from Mr. Mathews the British consul at Lisbon. They announced that executions and confiscations were taking place with unabated vig-our in that unhappy capital.

The Lisbon Gazette communicates the afflicting intelligence of the execution of five officers, who were implicated in the designs of Morisco. They were hanged and their heads afterwards exposed upon the gallows—Two other persons who were brought out of prison with them were obliged to witness the execution of the five. Of this event our Falmouth letter gives the following account, which is so horrible that we hope it is not true. But it says—"On the 6th inst. a General and Colonel, and three other officers were executed at Lisbon; during this tragical scene their children were compelled to walk round the scaffold, and sentenced to be banished to Africa. Several more executions were expected to take place, as gibbets were erected in different parts of the City."

Another letter of the 7th of March, giving a more particular account of the execution of these unfortunate men, states that they were in the first place condemned by the Court which tried them, to transportation for life. This however, did not satisfy Don Miguel, who insisted upon death, and after two days negotiation the judges changed the sentence.

NEW ARCTIC EXPEDITION.
Captain Ross, whose voyage to the Polar Seas excited at the time considerable attention, is so far advanced in preparation for a similar undertaking, that he expects to be able to start by the middle of next month. The expedition is undertaken at the sole expense of Capt. Ross and his friends, and the great novelty attending it, is that steady to be employed in it for the first time.
Capt. Ross goes out in the Victory, a steam vessel of 200 tons registered, accompanied by the John of 300 tons, laden with fuel, and stores and provisions for three years. The powerful steam engine of the Victory is of the high pressure kind, and will consume fuel of every kind, whether the wood to be found in many places on the coast, or the oil to be procured from the tenants of the deep; and the vessel is so constructed as to be incapable of destruction by the pressure of icebergs, the effect of which will be to raise her up instead of crushing her. The paddles, worked by steam, can also be taken off if necessary, and at once she can be rigged as a sailing vessel. The crew of the Victory and John will amount to 60 men, and the officers are distinguished for their scientific attainments. The equipment is, in all respects, most complete. Eng. paper.

SUNDAY MAILS.
Some of the passengers from Philadelphia state, that the Mail from this city for the southward was forcibly detained at Princeton on Sunday evening by the inhabitants. Another account is, that there had been some disturbance between the mail guard and the passengers, the guard insisting on taking an inside seat, the consequence of which was a mob, and a delay of the mail.
